

The Big E Eater's Guide 2026: What to eat and where to find it

Published: Sep. 18, 2026, 6:00 a.m.

What should you eat at The Big E? That's the ultimate question for folks going to the biggest state fair in New England. That's why we're here to tell you about all the best foods and where to actually find them.

But with so many options and so much fairground to navigate, how do you choose? That's where the Big E Eater's Guide comes in.

The fairgrounds maps are certainly helpful. But we went through all the work of breaking down the fair into individual roads to point out where each vendor is at the fair — plus what they sell.

Here are some handy Big E maps to give you everything you need to know to make navigating and finding the food you're looking for easy.

NOTE: I try my best every year to make sure everything is up-to-date and that the vendors and menus are accurate. Things change and can fall through the cracks. If you spot anything amiss in the guide, please let me know at nomalley@masslive.com.

(This is an updated version of our annual Eater's Guide that most recently ran in 2025.)

The 2026 Big E Eater's Guide

The Big E fairgrounds are, well, big. They can also be tricky. The roads bend in weird ways. If you don't know where you're going, it's easy to miss big parts of the fair — or just go in circles.

It doesn't help that there are changes every year with new vendors arriving, some moving and not returning to the fair.

To simplify things, we've broken down the fair into 15 numbered areas. There are seven roads, the food court, four "building" areas and two newer areas. There's the Front Porch, which debuted in 2022, and the Craft Common, which really started adding food vendors in 2025.

Areas 1-8 are the biggest outdoor hubs for food, 9-11 are side streets, 12-14 have indoor vendors and the state buildings (15) are a whole other subsection by themselves:

1. New England Avenue
2. The Front Porch
3. Commonwealth Avenue
4. Food Court
5. Avenue of States
6. Craft Common
7. East Road
8. West Road
9. Springfield Road
10. Industrial Avenue
11. Hampden Avenue
12. Young Building
13. Better Living Center
14. New England Center
15. The State Buildings

New England Avenue at The Big E – and which foods to watch for. (The Big E)

1. New England Avenue

New England Avenue is the entry point for many visitors entering the fair from the main parking lot. It starts at Gate 9A and stretches out toward the heart of the fair — where the Court of Honor Stage and Coliseum are.

New England Avenue is a great starting point, since it's got some of the best food options at the fair. Just be careful not to fill up too quickly before you get to explore.

Marion's Fried Foods is a great spot to get some of the sillier deep-fried foods at the fair. If you want to go home with a fun story, get the fried butter.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. Marion's Fried Foods: Fried Butter
2. Chompers: Chicken Parm Chompers

The Front Porch at The Big E — and what goods to get there.(The Big E)

2. The Front Porch

The Front Porch is a subsection of the fair near the Court of Honor Stage that debuted in 2022. It's a nice little corner with some cozy seats tucked away in the shade.

It's a welcome oasis near some high-traffic areas on the fairground. If you get overwhelmed by the crowds, this is a good place to take a break.

This is where you can find Boricua Bites, which quietly landed at the fair last year, but had one of my favorite foods in recent memory — the Empanada Dog.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. SoulFully: Spicy PB&J Burger

Commonwealth Avenue at The Big E — and what to get there.(The Big E)

3. Commonwealth Avenue

If New England Avenue is the main entry point for The Big E, then Commonwealth Avenue is the main hub. This is one of the longest stretches of road at the fair and holds a huge number of vendors.

Because of that, it tends to get pretty crowded. Fortunately, there are a lot of little side roads you can take to get in and out of the thoroughfare. I recommend slipping through the Craft Common or the road behind the C Barn that leads to West Road.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. Angela's Pizza: Giant Mozzarella Stick, Pickle Pizza
2. Porky's: BBQ Sundae — A parfait of awesome BBQ ingredients (no ice cream).

The Food Court at The Big E — and what to get there.(The Big E)

4. Food Court

The Food Court is a changeup from the rest of the fair. Instead of long roads, this is a dense cluster of wonderful food vendors that also has some nice seating and shade.

If you need a break from walking all day, this is a good destination.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. EB's Food for Fun: Fried Shepherd's Pie or Fried Mac & Cheese
2. White Hut: Uncrusta-Double Burger — A double cheeseburger with deep-fried Uncrustables instead of buns

The Avenue of States at The Big E — and what to get there.(The Big E)

5. Avenue of States

This is the main road through the back part of the fair — and probably the easiest road to recognize. This is the road that has buildings modeled after the state houses of all six New England states.

While the state buildings are some of The Big E's best destinations, don't overlook the Avenue of States itself. It has some great places to stop for food and drinks. It also has the fair's lone sit-down restaurant, Storowton Tavern & Carriage House, which is open year-round.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. New England Craft Beer Pub: Beer-a-Misu, Turducken Sandwich, Thanksgiving Nachos

The Craft Common at The Big E — and what to get there. (The Big E)

6. Craft Common

The Craft Common has always been a part of the fair, representing one of The Big E's few green spaces. But it's historically been limited to mostly shops.

In recent years, some food vendors have moved in.

The Steaming Tender is back and offering its amazing whiskey bread pudding. Meanwhile, there's an additional location for Pioneer Valley Poppers.

New to the Craft Common is Tripp's Farmhouse Cafe, which has some fun breakfast sandwiches served on hashbrowns and doughnuts.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. Steaming Tender: Whiskey Bread Pudding — An amazingly sweet, old-school dessert

Full list of foods and vendors:

Tripp's Farmhouse Cafe - Hashbrown Breakfast Sandwich, Donut Breakfast Sandwich, Chicken Fingers, Burgers, Fried Oreos

East Road at The Big E — and what to get there.(The Big E)

7. East Road

East Road is a key connecting road that passes by the Mallory Complex (the building with the farm animals) and the Midway before passing by the Food Court. It also loops around the Young Building.

If you walk around long enough, you'll probably find yourself on East Road. While you're here, you might as well get something to eat.

Anna's Fried Dough has been a mainstay on East Road, with Macho Tacho and Apple Fries recently emerging as popular destinations.

This year, Simply Gluten Free has joined the Big E lineup, offering gluten-free versions of some fair favorites.

Vendors/foods you should try:

West Road at The Big E — and what to get there.(The Big E)

8. West Road

West Road is the wide-open connecting road leading to the back part of the fair. It runs between the Midway and the Coliseum before ending at The Big E Arena.

We have some big changes on West Road this year. The old Opa Opa Saloon is gone. In its place is The Paddock, which offers craft beer and sliders.

Also new to West Road is Cantina Louie, which offers Mexican food up front and a cozy cantina area out back.

Springfield Road at The Big E — and what to get there.(The Big E)

9. Springfield Road

Springfield Road can be easy to miss if you're not looking for it. Just keep an eye out for the big yellow slide.

This road, which is the entry point for Gate 7, has some of my favorite vendors at the fair, including the main location for Moolicious. I remain a huge fan of their Moo-Nut (a doughnut filled with soft serve). Their MooNugs are also awesome. Those are little nuggets of ice cream that look like chicken nuggets.

New to Springfield Road this year is The Big Fizz E, which offers dirty sodas.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. Moolicious: MooNugs, Moo-Nut

The Young Building at The Big E — and what foods to look for.(The Big E)

12. Young Building

That's it for the roads. Now it's time to take a look at all the buildings at The Big E.

The Young Building, like most buildings at the fair, has large doors on each side that allow for easy access. Just be careful to keep track of where you come out. It's easy to get turned around.

The Young Building (sometimes called the International Building) has a lot of commercial vendors if you're looking to shop.

It also has two of the coolest bar setups at the fair. There's the Smoking Dragon Bar, which serves cocktails that are bubbling and smoking in the glass. There's also a Christmas-themed bar where you can get drinks served in an ornament.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. The Mick Express: Alfredo Bomb Deep-Fried Pasta

13. Better Living Center

Like the Young Building, the Better Living Center is a building loaded with commercial vendors. It's also the home of The Emporium, which serves the new and improved Craz-E Burger.

Then there's Ferrindino Maple, who do amazing things with maple syrup. Their newest concoction is the Maple Bacon Creemee Waffle, which is a caramelized waffle topped with maple creemee, whipped cream, maple bacon and maple syrup.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. The Emporium: Craz-E Burger, Spic-E Burger
2. Ferrindino Maple: Maple Bacon Creemee Waffle

Full list of foods and vendors:

The Cantina - Margarita topped with Cotton Candy

The New England Center at The Big E — and what's there for food.(The Big E)

14. New England Center

In terms of food, the only thing you'll find here is the Big E Bakery. There are multiple spots at the fair where you can buy Cream Puffs. But this is the only place where you can watch them being made.

Vendors/foods you should try:

1. Big E Cream Puff Bakery: Big E Cream Puff, Big E-clair, Peanut Butter Cream Puff

Full list of foods and vendors:

Big E Cream Puff Bakery - Big E Cream Puff, Big E-clair, Peanut Butter Cream Puff

The State Buildings at The Big E — and highlights from each building.(The Big E)

15. State Buildings

The State Buildings are almost like mini-fairs to themselves. On the Avenue of States, you'll see six buildings, which are all replicas of the actual state buildings in New England. Each of the six buildings houses a variety of vendors that represent their state.

The State Buildings largely consist of small businesses and associations that uproot themselves and set up shop at the fair, providing some unique foods and products. There are some amazing finds inside (and outside) each of the buildings.

The State Buildings - Vendors/foods to watch for

(Here is the order of the buildings from left to right as you face them from the Avenue of

Rhode Island - The highlights here are the Del's Lemonade and multiple seafood options. You can go for quahogs of chowder in a bread bowl. I'm a fan of the creative fries from Friskie Fries and Cookie Ice Cream Sandwiches from Wright's Dairy Farm.

Massachusetts - There are a ton of great vendors inside the building. But on the side of the building, you've got Macken's Specialty Sliders, which have some of the best burger-based foods at the fair. Behind the building is Valley Malt Beer Garden, which has one of the best tap lists at the fair.

Vermont - This is one of the most crowded state buildings – and for good reason. There's great cider, pizza and desserts – as well as a special Ben & Jerry's location.

Behind the building, you'll find Vermont Marshmallow Company, which is one of my favorite spots at the fair. Due to logistical issues, they'll be without their famed S'Macaron for the first four days of the fair (they'll have it Tuesday onward). In the meantime, they're making a S'mored Oreo, which features a torched marshmallow between two Oreos.

Maine - The big attraction here is the Maine Baked Potato, which typically has a line out the side of the building. I'm more partial to the blueberry treats.

Connecticut - In terms of sheer size and vendors, the Connecticut Building towers over the competition. It certainly helps that there's a huge tent in back that extends the space. This is home to one of the top BBQ spots at the fair (Bear's Smokehouse).

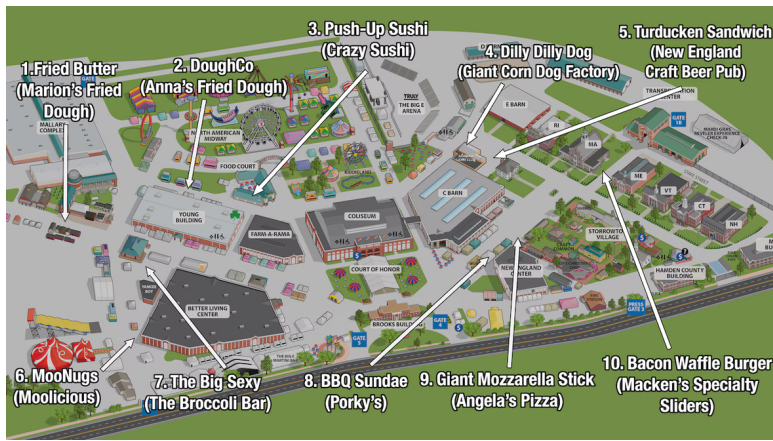

New Hampshire - The highlight here is the Mac N' Cheese from Zack's Mac Attack. Meanwhile, behind the building is New Hampshire Kettle Corn, which is my favorite spot to get kettle corn at the fair.

One more note: Make sure to check out behind each state building. Here, you can find some of the quietest spots and best seating options at the fair.

Nick's picks for the 10 must-try foods at The Big E for 2025.

With dozens of vendors and hundreds of food options, it can be pretty overwhelming to try and actually pick out what to eat at the fair.

With that in mind, here are my picks for what I think folks should eat at the fair. You don't need to try all 10. But if you're looking to narrow things down, here's the short list.

Not sure what to get at The Big E? Here are our top 10 foods to seek out. (The Big E)
